

BREIS Competition Winners: Dominic Araba and Yezan Abdulla (8R)

WORDS HAVE POWER

With BREIS, he sees all the words that rhyme and please, a rapper like police, catching all the words to put in a beautiful piece. But I'm like mini breis (just better), I can put rhymes
in a letter, as smooth as a feather without an error,
however when speaking aloud
I fall under pressure,
I know I'm clever, but only
to a certain measure.

Poem by Yezan Abdulla 8R (mini BREIS)

(Verse 1) Yo, let me tell you 'bout a rapper so fly, A lyrical genius, you can't deny.
His name is BREIS, he's got the skill, Spitting rhymes that give you a chill.

From London to Lagos, he's making waves, Representing Africa, proud and brave.
With his Afrobeat vibe and hip-hop flow, BREIS got the rhythm, he's stealing the show.

(Chorus) BREIS, the king of the mic, His words hit hard, shining so bright. With every verse, he tells a tale, A storyteller, making the crowd inhale.

(Verse 2) BREIS is more than just a rapper, He's an educator, a wise soul snapper.
Using music as a tool for change, Spreading knowledge, breaking down the cage.

He's got the wisdom, he's got the insight, Teaching us to rise, shining our light.
BREIS is an inspiration, a role model, Empowering the youth, breaking the bottle.

(Chorus) BREIS, the king of the mic, His words hit hard, shining so bright. With every verse, he tells a tale, A storyteller, making the crowd inhale.

(Verse 3) BREIS is versatile, he's got the range, Switching up styles, never sounding strange.
Whether it's conscious rap or a feel-good jam, He brings the fire, the beats go BAM!

He's got the charisma, he's got the swag, Onstage presence that makes the crowd brag.
BREIS is a legend in the making, Leaving his mark, the ground shaking.
