Dear Mr C Crehan,

We have recently been into your school to deliver our Theatre in Education programmes on Sexual Health and Child Sexual Exploitation. Following the success of both sessions we thought we would write not only to thank you and your staff but to also praise your young people.

Throughout our visit, your staff made us feel very welcome. Nothing was too much trouble and everyone seemed so enthusiastic about the work we delivered. Please can we pass on special thanks to Nicole Wilkinson for the organisation of the day which made sure everything ran smoothly and efficiently.

Finally we would like to praise the learners. Year 9 and 10 were an absolute pleasure to work with. We have noticed a massive improvement in the students' behaviour and maturity. The respect they showed us and each other allowed for some fascinating discussion work around the issues. Suggestions and points were made which we had never had before despite having delivered the programme for many years. The engagement, focus and interaction during both performances was exceptional. It was a pleasure to work with them.

Please pass on our thanks to your students for making us feel so welcome and interacting so maturely and respectfully.

We look forward to revisiting your school in the future and working with more of your fantastic learners.

Yours sincerely,

Lily and Tom,

Loudmouth Education and Training
