

A very successful workshop with 86% of the participants openly responding to the polls and many feedbacking back post session. At the end of the session, attendees gained a better understanding to the real dangers that the internet can bring into people's lives and felt better equipped in helping to keep their children safe when using the internet, social media and playing online games. Here are some anonymised feedbacks from the session participants:

"A good and much needed session. It was delivered very good and I will definitely speak with the children"

"So helpful. The gaming shocked me "

Extremely powerful and such an eye-opener. Very well put together. I learned lots and will share the information with my family"

"Excellent webinar and easy to follow. Highly recommended"

“I thought I knew, but everyone needs to see this. I’m so glad I attended”

“Fantastic session today”

“You opened my eyes up to how young people can make simple mistakes online that can then lead to big problems. It is important we know this and what children can and are doing online! The social media puts a lot of pressure on my daughter and me. Thank you so much”

“I already tell my sister and now she has taken all the 18 games off her boys who are both under 13yr old. We didn’t know this and very happy school give us this”

‘Online safety is when young people know who they can tell if they feel upset by something that has happened online’.
Ash Sharma